BSS 2025 OVERVIEW

The Black Sustainability Summit is a global "online & onland" gathering of Sustainability practitioners of African descent. Since 2016, we have hosted thousands of presenters and attendees to exchange traditional, nature-inspired wisdom and best practices to address modern-day environmental and social challenges.

This Year's Summit at KASI

2025 marks our 10th Annual Black Sustainability Summit (BSS2025), which will be co-hosted with long-time partner and multi-year summit presenting organization HABESHA, Inc. From October 18-19, 2025, BSS2025 will be held during HABESHA, Inc.'s DZODZOME FEST at the Kweku Andoh Sustainability Institute (KASI) in the Volta region of Ghana, West Africa. The summit at KASI will feature hands-on workshops with environmental experts and indigenous leaders, along with tours of the space, food, entertainment, and other festival activities. We will also have our traditional virtual sessions as part of this year's theme "Traditional wisdom meets modern application" with live and recorded presentations for those who can only join us online.

HI-TEK Learning Journey - Ghana

Following the "onland" summit at KASI, there will be a multi-day sustainability + cultural tour of Ghana's rich ecological stewardship history, exploring some of the region's most naturally beautiful landscapes, historic attractions, and presentations by local Black Sustainability Network members leading sustainable solutions. Key experiences include visits to sustainable farms, ecological reserves, vibrant market places, and renewable energy projects, along with cultural immersions that showcase the importance of environmental preservation in African traditions.

This entire experience of the summit and tour is our Black Sustainability Hi-TEK (High Traditional Ecological Knowledge) Learning Journey, a milestone in our 10-year history as it will also marks our first in-person summit on the African continent. This Learning Journey will be a chance for at least 100 international and local attendees to exchange indigenous wisdom and modern strategies to address global climate issues rooted in Afrikan culture. We anticipate hundreds more will view concurrent virtual sessions, as well as promo, live, and recap content via BSI, HABESHA, and other partners' social media pages.
